RFL PREVIEW

Qualifying Final

Ganmain-Grong Grong-Matong Lions v Griffith Swans

Griffith return to finals for the first time since 2019 and enjoyed a timely return to form with a final-round win over Wagga Tigers last week. It was pretty much finals come early with high stakes for both clubs adding merit to the 38-point win.

Griffith have shown this year that their best is good enough but the gap between their best and worst, like a few clubs, has been too big. Their best effort of the year was arguably against Ganmain-Grong Grong-Matong in round two when trouncing them on their home turf by 65 points. They also enjoyed a five-game winning streak during the middle part of the season that had them on top of the table at one stage.

While the big win over GGGM earlier in the year will provide them with some confidence, the Lions have come a long way since then, highlighted by their 13-point win at Griffith in the return bout in round 15.

The reigning premiers have got better as the year's gone on and history says the Lions know a fair bit about getting the job done at the business end of the season. There might not be a better player in the competition than Matt Hamblin right now. His second half of the year has been superb and a big reason why the Lions have come good. There's nothing to suggest he won't win his first Jim Quinn Medal next month, guide the Lions to back-to-back flags and move on to bigger and better things. Sam Martyn has also hit his straps, while Harry Carr is playing the best football he has since arriving at the club.

Griffith boast a number of quality players and are fortunate enough to have an even spread across their 22, with a number of promising young footballers coming through the ranks. Rhys Pollock and Hamblin may go head-to-head for the league medal next month and they'll likely battle it for a bigger prize on Saturday. Pollock will be looking for strong support from the likes of Alex Page and Jack Rowston through the middle. If they can win the midfield battle and get enough ball into the likes of Henry Delves, James Toscan and Patrick Payne then the Swans will be a big chance of victory.

One could argue that Griffith boasts more talent on their list but there are none better than getting every last bit out of their players than GGGM, especially at this time of year. With that in mind, plus the fact they've won the last seven straight, it's hard to go past the Lions in this one.

Prediction: GGGM by 12 points

RFL PREVIEW

Elimination Final

Collingullie-Glenfield Park Demons v Coolamon Rovers

A mouthwatering elimination final showdown is set for Robertson Oval on Sunday where two of the most interesting teams of the season face off in a sudden-death final.

Collingullie-Glenfield Park completed their remarkable return from the dead as they belted Leeton-Whitton by 153 points to storm into fourth spot and secure their finals spot by percentage. It was a big effort from the Demons, who won seven of their last nine when all hope looked lost.

They will enter finals as one of the form teams of the competition plus the added confidence of winning both games against Coolamon this year. The Demons had been struggling up until the point they upset Coolamon by six goals in round six, and then doubled down with a four-goal win at Kindra Park last month.

It's been an up and down year for Coolamon and they only scraped into finals on percentage in the end after losing their last three games. It has now been confirmed that Jake Barrett is in his last campaign as coach of the Rovers and he will be coaching from the sidelines due to the broken bone in his leg. That loss is massive for Coolamon, who have struggled to determine what their best line-up is this season, then get it on the field consistently.

One thing that is for sure is that there's certainly enough quality on the list. Finals is made for a player like Tim Oosterhoff, who has the ability to make the series his own if the Rovers can get going and provide him with enough opportunities. Bailey Wood, Cooper McKelvie, BJ Glyde and Pat Walker have all enjoyed good seasons, and if the likes of Jeremy Sykes, Joe Redfern, Shae Darcy and Nick Fleming can find another gear, then the sky is the limit for Coolamon.

Standing in their way at Robertson Oval on Sunday is the likes of Ed and Joe Perryman, San Stening, Noah Harper and Kane Flack, some of the most promising footballers in the region that have their tail up after a big finish to the home and away season. Both forward lines have the ability to kick a winning score so it shapes as a game that will be won and lost in the midfield.

Collingullie-GP were grand finalists last year and this season promised so much. Coolamon came in as premiership favourites on the back of a fearsome recruitment campaign. The season will come to a disappointing early end for one on Sunday, while the other will leap into the second round full of momentum, knowing anything is possible.

Prediction: Coolamon by 7 points

RNL PREVIEW

Qualifying Final

Coolamon Rovers v Griffith Swans

Coolamon were still a live minor premier chance going into the final round but went down by 12 to Mangoplah-Cookardina United-Eastlakes. That leaves in a qualifying final clash with Griffith.

To say there has been very little between these two teams this season would be an understatement. They finished locked on 27 points, with just one percentage point the difference. Coolamon scored a narrow three-goal win back in round seven at Griffith, before the two teams played out a 45-all draw last month.

Sarah Hooper has done a top job in her first season back at Coolamon in the top job. The Rovers will be looking to the leadership of Hillier, Kirsty Lowe and Jordan Barrett to steer them home here.

Griffith come into finals on the back of a strong 49-21 win over Wagga Tigers. The Swans are led by the one-and-only Johannah Munro, a former Super netballer, and she will lead her team from the front.

Prediction: Griffith by 3

Elimination Final

Collingullie-Glenfield Park Demons v Wagga Tigers

Collingullie-Glenfield Park return to A grade finals on the back of a fourth-placed finish under first-year coach Olivia Jolliffe. She has done a fabulous job after they just won the two games last season.

The addition of Jolliffe, Madison Casley and Nicole Absolum has not only provided an injection of talent but also experience.

The Demons will go in with confidence too after beating Tigers on both occasions this season. They won 41-36 in round seven at Robertson Oval, before getting it done 49-38 last month at Crossroads.

Tigers have limped into finals somewhat with just one from their last four games. They've been here and done it before, although this year's team is much younger than those in the past.

Prediction: Collingullie-Glenfield Park by 11

'Hannam to enjoy milestone on the big stage'

One of The Rock-Yerong Creek's favourite sons will bring up a special milestone in Saturday's second semi-final at Robertson Oval.

Three-time premiership player Todd Hannam will play his 300th club game for the Magpies against Marrar.

Hannam knows nothing else but TRYC. He started out in the juniors and progressed through to the senior ranks, playing nowhere but his beloved mighty Magpies.

And to now enter the prestigious 300 club in a huge final for the club, Hannam can't wait.

"I've been told about it most of the year so we've been keeping track of it, which is nice," Hannam said this week.

"It's worked out alright hasn't it? I actually thought it was going to be a bit earlier in the year but they told me if we ended up playing finals, that it would be around finals time.

"So it should be good."

TRYC have enjoyed an outstanding season, losing just the one game on the way to the minor premiership.

They now get the chance to add to the club's proud history and are just two wins away from another premiership.

Hannam knows what it takes to win one. He's been part of the 2006, 2011 and 2015 flags.

He's eager to add another, explaining that the premierships have been a highlight of his career.

"Your flags are always a really big thing, they're the things you remember," Hannam said.

"I've always liked playing footy with my mates, it's why I've stayed here. All your flags and that are a cherry on top really.

"It's obviously a really good club, the reason I keep coming back is that you just like playing with your mates and getting out there every Saturday and having a few beers afterwards.

"If you can put it all together and get those few premierships, even better.

"There's a lot of blokes you see now with kids and you might not see them very often, you might run into them at junior footy and you always have a good 10, 15 minute chat to them because of those years that you've won premierships.

"You're obviously that little bit closer together, it's a little bit different, you play footy with blokes and you say hi to them, but if you win a premiership with someone it's always that extra little bit special, you always stop and have a chat to those guys no matter what."

Another man that knows all about premiership success is TRYC co-coach Brad Aiken.

He's been and done it nine times as a player at Collingullie and is now looking to experience his first as leader of the Magpies.

Aiken is confident he and fellow coach Heath Russell have the group as good as they could get them.

"I hope so. There's an opportunity there to win a GF and you only get so many chances," Aiken said.

"We've put the work in, the same as all of the rest of the finals teams have I guess, but I know it only gives you so much, you've still got to play well, you've still got to play to your structures.

"Our last three weeks we've shown we're still playing the right footy at stages, we probably haven't played the four quarter game but we're going to be fit, we're going to be fresh and hopefully that gives us some opportunities."

FFL PREVIEW

Second Semi Final

The Rock-Yerong Creek Magpies v Marrar Bombers

Last year's grand finalists will meet again on the big stage at Robertson Oval to determine who will be the first team through to this year's decider.

The Rock-Yerong Creek will go into the second semi-final as clear favourites on the back of an outstanding home and away season that saw them only drop the one game, to Charles Sturt University.

The Magpies overcame Marrar by one point at Langtry Oval earlier in the year, then backed it up with a 25-point win at Victoria Park mid-season.

The big query surrounds Marrar's ability to take it up to the Magpies without their best player, Zach Walgers. He injured his hamstring in the qualifying final win over Northern Jets and is extremely unlikely to face the Magpies. The Bombers haven't been able to beat the Magpies so far this season with Walgers, so for them to do it without him shapes as a mammoth task.

To be fair, Marrar had a lot of players step up in his absence in the second half last week. Chris O'Donnell, Josh Staines, Jed Jenkins and Angus Kent will have more responsibility in the midfield and will need to step up. Jordan Hedington was brilliant across half-back for the Bombers last week, as was Bryce Mann and that is where Marrar look to get a lot of their drive from. Liam James was also superb at full-back last week on Matt Wallis and will have another big task in front of him this week as he is tasked with the job on James Roberts.

While Marrar are a little banged up from last week, the Magpies are fit, fresh and ready to go. Curtis Steele, Don Roberts and Jordy Kemp should all come back in for TRYC. The midfield is where the Magpies will look to assert their authority, especially in the absence of Walgers. TRYC boast the likes of Curtis Steele, Riley Budd, Don Roberts, Joey Hancock, Tom Yates and Cooper Diessel that should be getting good service from Matt Parks and Noah Budd.

The Bombers' defence, while very good at rebounding, will have their hands full limiting twin towers, James Roberts and Dean Biermann, as well as Todd Hannam and Mitch Stephenson. The Magpies' resting midfielders are also quite dangerous.

If Marrar can reproduce the pressure game they brought last week, they will be in this for a long way but expect the Magpies to justify their premierships favouritism with an emphatic victory.

Prediction: TRYC by 30 points

FFL PREVIEW

First Semi Final

Northern Jets v Charles Sturt University Bushpigs

Not content with just making finals this time around, Charles Sturt University will hit the second week on a high after enjoying their first finals win in 22 years. The Bushpigs upstaged East Wagga-Koorinal by 24 points, winning the ball at the contest and then proving far superior with their ball use and run.

Lachie Holmes backed up a big season with a commanding finals performance, relishing the contest to lead the charge and he was well-supported by Lachie Moore, who overcame a quad injury to play a starring role. CSU's forward line has been a source of concern for parts of the year but Hayden Wooden led a dangerous group of smalls, while Sean Holgate also clunked some nice marks and looked dangerous in one of his best games at first grade level.

While they were very good, CSU will have to rise to a new level against the Jets at Langtry Oval on Sunday. The Bushpigs haven't been able to get within five goals of the Jets this year and they will have a point to prove after going down to Marrar by 14 points in last Saturday's qualifying final.

It was an uncharacteristic performance from the Jets, whose ball movement looked nowhere near what it has been for most parts of the season. A combination of the wet weather combined with the pressure Marrar placed them under, the Jets made a number of mistakes and turned the ball over regularly.

The Jets' pride themselves on their midfield and that's where the improvement needs to start this week. Lachie Jones will look to impose himself in the ruck, while Jack Fisher and Mitch Haddrill will be looking to bounce back after quieter games last week. Coach Jack Harper was dangerous but let himself down in front of goal, kicking 0.4 so he'll be another looking to make amends against CSU. Matt Wallis was restricted to just two goals last week and he is another who will be looking to have a bigger influence on the contest this week.

The Jets defence was one group that performed well last week and it could strengthen up even more with the potential return of Brad McKinnon from injury.

Both clubs have been starved of finals success in recent times and will be desperate to get a crack at a grand final appearance. On form this season, it's impossible to go past the Jets and we expect them to bounce back here.

Prediction: Northern Jets by 26 points

FNL PREVIEW

Second Semi Final

Temora Kangaroos v East Wagga-Kooringal Hawks

Temora will go in as warm favourites to progress straight through to the grand final on the back of an undefeated season. Their only blemish was a 44-all draw with North Wagga late in the season.

Temora accounted for East Wagga-Kooringal 58-32 earlier in the year, then backed it up with a 50-33 victory at Gumly Oval in June.

The Hawks are on a roll and they haven't lost since that last game against Temora. They highlighted how much they've improved with an impressive 10-goal win over North Wagga in last week's qualifying final.

Temora will look towards the ever-reliable Reinhold sisters, Abbey and Meg, along with Ella Finemore to lead the charge. Claudia Barton has led from the front all year in her first season as EWK coach and expect Saturday to be no different.

Prediction: Temora by 6

First Semi Final

North Wagga Saints v Barellan Two Blues

North Wagga's premiership defence will be on the line when they take on Barellan in the first semi-final.

The Saints were outplayed by East Wagga-Kooringal in wet conditions last week, going down by 10, and coach Flynn Hogg would be expecting a strong response from her team. Barellan, meantime, kept their season alive with an impressive elimination final win over Northern Jets.

North Wagga will take confidence from the fact they've got over Barellan in both games this year. On the other hand, Barellan will go in knowing they're right in the hunt given the margin in those previous encounters has been just two and four goals.

Ashleigh O'Leary back on court in full flight last week provided Barellan with a big boost and they will again look to her to lead their charge. North Wagga boasts a lot of big game experience and will be looking to the likes of Sarah O'Leary, Keely Stephenson, Margie Pollack and Kelly Stephenson to lead the way.

Prediction: North Wagga by 1
